

Sage Kosa bio

Sage was raised in the mixed hardwood, deciduous forests of Connecticut. Her first training and work were in the field of architecture before transitioning into horticulture. She owns and operates Kindred Gardens, a garden design, install, care, consulting, and coaching business. As an educator and practitioner, she is passionate about supporting local gardens and gardeners and creating gardens that function as healthy, balanced ecosystems.